A 20-year-old home has been remodeled for a family with two children. The focus entirely lies on the children and their wishes. By that it was possible to incorporate unique elements like a slide connecting entrance and playroom. The playroom includes a climbing wall, a tree house, a painting corner, a swing and even a beanbag hanging from the ceiling. There is plenty of space to play, create and have fun. The children's bedroom was also specially designed for the two little girls. An unicorn wallpaper, their favorite color on the walls and even a tipi with comfortable pillows were included. The absolute highlight of the bedroom is the large wooden tree with birds which disguises the existing fireplace pipe, creating a dreamy oasis. Not only the latest additions but also the complete basic construction for all other rooms were planned and built by Collab Interiors.
